Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's SOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best-known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Brown March 25th.—John L. Sullivan says now that the Mississippi trouble is disposed of he is free to fight Jackson . "If the California Athletic Club will put up a purse of $20,000 for a fight between Jackson and myself I will meet him in a battle for the championship. I don't care what the gloves are so long as they come within the restrictions of the law. I shall demand at least $20,000, and shall stick to it. I am now willing to negotiate with the California Athletic Club. I couldn't do anything about the match while the sentence was hanging over me. I think that is now settled, and if the club officers want me to fight Jackson in their rooms I should like to fight Jackson in their rooms I should like to fight Jackson is no mean opponent, and I must be in first-class condition to win."

Richard Owen, a well-known scientist, was fatally, and A. H. Fretagoet, a promiuent merchant, seriously poisoned last night by taking a drink from a bottle supposed to contain mineral water, but which really was an embalming fluid.

Professor Owen was one of the four sons of the Scotch philanthropist Robert Owen, known all over the world for his learning and benevolence. Professor Owen's two brothers—David Dale, an eminent geologist, and Robert Dale, a statesman and scholar—were also of world-renowned reputation.

Professor Richard Owen was celebrated as a scholar, scientist and soldier. He was born in Scotland and educated abroad, afterwards coming to this country. After serving in the United Scotland and educated abroad, afterwards coming to this country. After serving in the United States Geological Survey he became a Captain in the Mexican war. He was afterwards State Geologist for Indiana and a Professor in the Bloomington University. In the civil war he served with gallantry as a Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fitteenth Indiana Regiment, and afterwards raised and commanded the Sixtieth Indiana until 1863, when ill health compelled his resignation

New York, March 25th.—The fashionable suburban town of Mont Clair, N. J., was horrified over the discovery that one of her most respected citizens, James Tuthill Mason, a contractor, is a burglar, who nas been robbing houses right and left for years past. He was identified by accident. One of his victims grappling with him in a house one night last week unmasked him. Search of his house revealed thousan's of dollars' worth of jewelry, money and plate hid in the cellar. Tuthill and his pretty wife are in jail. His former friends believe he is the captain of a robber band and that his wife was a trusted lieutenant. it will have considerable effect upon the course oursued by the proprietors of the Union Iron Works.

Last evening the foundries were all guarded and the pickets of the union were increased. Word had been received by the latter organization that a force of men was expected from the East to take their places in the moding rooms, and, therefore, a number of the strikers went across the bay to the Sixteenth-street station to await the arrival of the men.

The molders, however, did not materialize. The Risdon, Fulton and Union Iron Works now have men at work molding, the proprietors of the first-named foundry claiming to have their full complement. The proprietors of the National and Occidental foundries also claim that they will resume operations in a few days. Ad-

they will resume operations in a few days. Advertisements have been inserted in nearly all the papers on the coast calling for molders the same to apply at the Risdon Iron Works. These advertisements have already borne fruit, as a molder from Tacoma was put to work yesterday. # THE SCHOOLS AND RELIGIOUS TEACH-

There is no real distinction between the Protestant zealots who insist upon reading the Bible in the schools, and the Catholic zealots who insist upon religious teaching in the free schools. Both would work evil in effect to a system that is purely political, and that has nothing whatever to do with the spiritual. The New York Times well says that the Protestants who insist upon making the schools proselyting instruments really aid the assaults of those Catholics who denounce the schools as ungodly.

These latter support their parochial schools avowedly as instruments of proselytism. Hitherto they have been compelled to support these at their own expense, but their demand for a division of the school-fund would be plausible if the public schools were made places of sectorian instruction.

The logic of this statement is undeniable So long as Catholics object to reading the scriptures in the schools, their protest must be respected, since it is on the same basis as the objection to the introduction of religious teachings in the schools, or the division of the school funds among sectarians. In Wisconsin there is a class of unreasoning people who cannot, or will not, see that this is simple truth. They have insisted upon reading in the schools a version of the Bible, approved by one sect and disapproved and pronounced not authoritative by another sect.

issue a case went to the Supreme Court. The Constitution of the State forbids sectarian teachings in the schools. The question was: "Is reading, without comtherefore, and of sectarian belief. One party insists that the version is authority, correct and right-guiding; the other that it is misleading, unauthorized and teaches false doctrine. The Court certainly was justified, on the joining of such an issue, in holding that the reading of the disputed Bible in the schools was in violation of the Constitution prohibiting sectarian teaching. As has been said by critics of the controversy, it would be possible to compile from the Bible a code of moral expressions and lessons that all would agree upon as not sectarian, and as beneficial to be read in the school. But the moment that is done, it is on the plane of the selection of good reading from any source that will have a beneficent influence upon the scholars of the schools.

Clearly the only way to comply with the spirit of Americanism that demands the separation of church and State, and church and schools, is to confine public instruction strictly and wholly to the im parting of information in the usual English and mathematical and other branches essential to the education of the citizen. not the churchman, nor the embryo churchman. The Supreme Court of Wisconsin in deciding the case referred to, remarked that where the scriptures are read is a place of worship; their introduction into the public schools, therefore, makes the school-house a place of worship, which is forbidden by the Constitution of the State. Evidently the people of Wisconsin, in framing their organic law, were especially solicitous to keep religion out of the schools, and to separate church and State as widely as possible. They intended that instruction in the common schools should be wholly secular; in so deciding, they acted wisely, since the slightest departure from it means the involvement of the system in the issues of sectarianism.

In the murder and suicide case at Redlands on Sunday there developed the strangest interpretation of morals of which civilization has heard. A wife who was carrying on a liaison with a single man discovered that he was accustomed to visit | ings are had and the tickets sold, that lewd women of the town. She thereupon | they will be prosecuted under the statutes sat down and wrote him a letter full of that hold the owners of such houses regush and apparent mortification, and re- sponsible. Oh, it does seem to me that if men could realize how much suffering they cause innocent women they would certainly do different. The world is so one-sided. Men expect the love of a pure woman and yet pollute themselves to the greatest depths of evil. THE LETTER TO THE CZAR.

A letter is published in the dispatches said to have been written by a bold and right of petition and of protest, but whom Siberia for exercising the right of such free speech, told the Czar some truths that such directness. The more incisive of her paragraphs are said to have been the following. They bear their own comment upon their face:

upon their face:

Experience of the past reign and your own experience must have demonstrated to your Maiesty that the policy of persecution does not attain its object. The day will come when the persecution of the right of thought will seem as the memory of a bad dream, but I fear that the advent of such a day will be accompanied by flames and floods of blood.

The whole of your system pushes those who are dissatisfied into the camp of the revolutionists, even those who feel a strong and natural repulsion for all ideas of blood and violence. For one imprudent word, for a revolutionary print often taken out of mere curiosity, a young man, a mere child, is declared to be a political criminal.

We have political criminals who are only 14 years old who are consigned to cellular confine-ment. A Government that rules 100,000,000 people trembles before children. In our country peo-ple are sent for twelve years to Eastern Siberia for offenses which in Austria would be punfor offenses which in Austria would be punished by two weeks' simple imprisonment.

By the side of the Draconian punishment in flicted by the tribunals we have also punishments by administrative order. By these latter the Government gets rid of the enemies against whom there is insufficient proof. This is the way the orders of deportation are drawn up: "Though there are no proofs on which to condemn, still be is exiled to ——." These warrants will be transmitted to posterity, and it is said that your Majesty's signature is affixed to such orders. Your salvation depends on your return to the reforms commenced by your father—freedom of speech, inviolability of the person, freedom of meeting, publicity given to all trials, education widely accessible to all, the suppression of arbitrary administration and the preservation of the Zeniskisobor, or national tributes the suppression of arbitrary administration and the preservation of the Zeniskisobor, or national tributes the purpose of the Zeniskisobor, or national tributes the purpose of the zeniskisobor, or national tributes the same place.

At the Metropolitan Theater to-morrow evening Jules Levy, the master cornetist of the world, will appear. He will be assisted by Mme. Stella Levy, soprano; Miss Barry, contralto; William J. ### A NOVEL IDEA.

and to say what I had to say.

P. T. Barnum, the veteran showman, is incapacitated, and whose years seem only to have quickened his wits and improved his perception, replies through the North American Review:

What novel feature would I propose? Now, I ment, from the St. James version of the Bible, sectarian teaching?" The Supreme Court replies in the affirmative, because the version used is denied as authority by the citizens who brought the action. The denial involves questions of teaching therefore, and of sectarian belief. One right of priority of claim in the idea to the Fair mmittee. Let them obtain the loan of the nortuary relies from the Egyptian Government, and allow the Khedive to send his own soldiers o guard the coffin. Think of the stupendousss of the incongruity! To exhibit to the people of the incongruity: To exhibit to the peo-ple of the nineteenth century, in a country not discovered until 2,000 or 3,000 years after his death, that corpse of the King of whom we have the earliest record! Consider, too, that the corpse is so perfectly preserved after thousands of years in the tomb that its features are almost perfect: so perfect, that every man, woman and child who looks upon the mum ny may know the countenance of the despot who exerted so great an influence upon the history of the world. And it might be a useful thought in this generation, proud of its scientific and mechanical triumphs, to bear in mind that the art that em-balmed the body of Rameses so perfectly is lost, with a great many others that were known to remote antiquity.

Barnum's is a capital idea. Since we must have something at such a fair out of the usual run, and that will address the fancy of the purely curious and be more than passing antique, what could better fill the bill than the proposition of Mr.

THE dispatches assert that Kilrain's friend, Rich, has purchased for him immunity from serving out his time in jail, by bribing the County Commissioners of Marion county, Mississippi. It is said that Rich argued with the Commissioners for two hours, and closed the debate by producing his check book and filling out a check for a large sum and throwing it to the Commissioners, they accepting it and allowing the prisoner to depart. Of course the disguise of all this business is the supposed compliance with the law permitting the hiring out of prisoners. Nominally, Kilrain is hired out to Rich for the term of his sentence, and while it is the law that all such rented-out convicts must be employed at hard labor, Kilrain and his purchaser are living in idleness together on the fat of the land, in a city without the jurisdiction of the local authorities who hired out the prisoner. It is such farces as these that bring the laws into contempt.

THE Oakland authorities have hit upon the right method of suppressing the Chinese lotteries that infest that city. They have served notices upon the owners of property on which the lottery drawlottery nuisance can be blotted out.

A friend gave him a drink of water, and Wirz happened to observe him. Whipping out his revolver he shot the unfortunate man dead in his tracks for "meddling." Bates, who was in terrible suffering, entreated Wirz to shoot him, too. Wirz did. He put two bullets into the suspended form, but not into vital spots. Sub-sequently, when he discovered that Bates was not dead, he shot him again, but again missing a vital place.

Eventually, "Billy" and "Dick" resolved

City Cemetery - Its Improvement Under the Present Management. The City Cemetery presents a neater and cleaner appearance at this time than it has for a number of years past. A reporter had occasion to visit it yesterday in company with Superintendent Parker, and made an inspection of the grounds to note the improvements that have been made during the past year. When Mr. Parker was installed as Super tendent of the cemetery he started in imediately to improve the grounds, and now has them in a condition which shows that a great deal of well directed labor has been done in the way of beautifying them The walks and roadways winding through the cemetery are free from grass and weeds and otherwise in good condition. The graves are well kept, and show that great care has been taken with them. In many places where large trees are growing near the graves Mr. Parker has had the roots of the tree running under the walls cut off so as not to crack the bricks and force the walls out of shape. In places, also, where graves had been neglected by the owners, east clean, if not as attractive as others. The large brick bulkhead on the west ide of the grounds, which toppled into the lough some time ago, has been replaced ring the past year, and is now on a solid oundation. In the rear portion of the cemetery the filling in of a large piece of ound, 387 feet in length by 278 feet in width, has just been completed, and a substantial brick wall three feet in hight surrounds the plat of ground. Before Mr. Parker had this piece filled or several months during the year, graves when dug there to the regulation depti were found to contain sipage water, and bodies could not be interred. The improvement lately made, however, makes this one of the choicest sections of the cemeters The front fence has been lowered and repaired, so as to improve its appearance, and the main entrance has been paved with

Mr. Parker's books are all kept by himself, and their neatness shows that care has been exercised in their keeping. In short, Mr. Parker has shown himself to be a worker, and the right man in the right place. His collections have been close and regular, and his receipts, as shown by the Auditor's books, have added much to the city treasury during his term of office,

LAWYER ESTABROOK'S FACETIOUSNESS GETS HIM INTO TROUBLE.

Assistant District Attorney Bruner Get. Mad and Demands an Apology-Wife-beater Harris.

"I'll teach you, sir, how to be a gentle-

Assistant District Attorney Bruner looked pale and determined when he addressed this stinging remark to attorney Frank Estabrook yesterday afternoon in Justice of the Peace Henry's Court. The trial of Henry L. Harris, the wife-beater, was in progress. A witness had just testified that he saw Mrs. Harris pick up her baby from its carriage and run into the house with it. Estabrook, who appeared as Harris' attorney, facetiously asked the witness to illustrate how it was done, and added that Mr. Bruner might act the part of the baby-This was more than the Assistant District Attorney could stand, and wheeling around so as to face the young barrister rebuked

Estabrook made matters worse by saying that he was always willing to learn something.

"All right, sir," replied Mr. Bruner, his eyes flashing; "you shall have it. Now, sir, I want you to take back that remark. You must apologize. There was no doubt that Mr. Bruner meant what he said, and the offending attorney realized that such was the case.

"I only said it in a joke," said Estabrook, "but if you want to take it seriously, all "I do take it seriously," was the angry reply, "and you've got to apoligize."

Mr. Estabrook did apologize. He explained that he was only joking and meant Judge Henry called for order, and addressing lawyer Estabrook, said he did not propose to have a circus in his Court-room. If attorneys could not conduct themselves properly in his Court, he would find a way of compelling them to do so.

Peace was then restored and the case continued without further interruption. The testimony against Harris was strong and undeniable. His wife told how, on last Friday night, she started to a doctor's office with her sick baby, but was over-taken in the street by Harris, who brutally struck her in the face with his fist. After this they took a room together in a lodging house, where he administered another beat-

Three young men who happened to be walking along K street when Harris assaulted his wife, corroborated her testi-

Harris, however, testified that he did not strike his wife, and only snatched a bottle of whisky from her. He then went on to tell the jury that his wife was a common from 859 to 159 pounds. drunkard; that she frequented low places without his consent, and was a source of great anxiety to him. He said that on the night in question, she had a bottle of whisky and wanted to drink it on the street. He snatched it from her, but did not strike her.

Before the case was submitted to the jury Harris and his wife got together in the Court-room and "made up." It was then the old, old story. The wife was sorry that she had had him arrested, and he promised to be a good and loving husband in the

Mrs. Harris also pleaded with his Honor to be merciful with the man who had not been merciful with her. Attorney Estabrook also asked the Court to be, lenient and Mr. Bruner said that out of respect for the jury's recommendation he would not demand a heavy sentence.

Judge Henry referred to the case as be ing a serious one and one which ought properly be made an example of. Every civil, religious, moral and social law in existence pronounced against the man who would strike a woman under any circumstances, and were it not for the jury's and wife's plea for mercy he would give Harris the extreme penalty of the law. After lecturing Harris severely and warning him not to get into the hands of the law again, the Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $40, with the alternative of going to jail for

BECKENDORF AND BAILEY.

The Former Gets the Worst of Severa Transactions. Peter Beckendorf has evidently been unfortunate in his business transactions with F. C. Bailey. He commenced suit in the Superior Court yesterday for the recovery of a total amount of $1,260 40 from Bailey, to which amount he alleges Bailey has become indebted to him. First he avers that on April 4, 1887, he took Bailey's promissory note for $700 and interest, which was made payable two years after the date upon which it was executed; but it has not been paid yet, so Beckendorf alleges.

Again on April 11, 1888, Bailey agreed to sell a certain tract of land near Perkins Station, to the plaintiff, and the latter put up $300 in Bailey's hands to bind the bargain. Bailey sold the land to somebod else, and forgot to give Beckendorf back his $300, so the complaint alleges. At another time within the past two years he loaned Bailey $50 and has never been paid, so he avers. Beckendorf now sues for these various amounts with interest, and the costs of the William Bearsford and J. Bearsford, charged with disturbing the peace. Grove L. Johnson and E. C. Hart had been employed as special counsel in the cases, and upon statements by them to the effect that peace had been made and all the parties satisfied an order of dismissal on a stipuation of satisfaction was made. William Kelly pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was sent to the County Jail for twenty days.

It Was Not in His Line.

Hugo Balthasar owned a yineyard near Routier's Station, which he purchased from ex-Senator Routier, and which, together with its crop, he had well-plastered with mortgages. He finally sold the place to one of his creditors and, it is said, left the county owing several of his employes. He is said to be at work on a Placer county ranch. The man who bought the place found it so heavily encumbered that he gave it up, and the creditors have had a re-

An Invention Calculated to Prolong the Use of Steam Boilers and Enhance their Safety.

Pacific Company, who resides at 1111 D by the Governor very shortly, but with what result none can tell. cise the full privileges of the priesthood.

The Bishop then proceeded with the street. Mr. Jordan, on the 4th instant,

The subject of water circulation within steam boilers has become one of vital importance with manufacturers and steam asers. The duration, or life, of a boiler around the heating surfaces; also to other obstruction which might impede the circuency of the story.

Of course, I discovered afterwards what I lation, leaving the impurities to be precipitated upon the heating surfaces, causing scale or incrustation.

All natural water found upon the surface of the earth, evaporated to dryness, leaves hence when evaporated within a boiler the East to-night. They will be away a good part water becomes highly impregnated with these salts, which are rapidly accumulated greatly deteriorating the steaming qual-Scale has been found to be an indifferent conductor of heat to such an extent that tubes made of copper, brass and iron, the conducting power of which are 74, 24 and 12, respectively, when clean, show no perceptible difference in their evaporative power after a few days' use with ordinary mpurified water.

The only known method to obviate this condition is to cause a circulation of the water within the boiler, thereby causing the lighter foreign matter in the circulation and depositing it, together with the heav in money, to deceased's stepdaughter, Mrs. Carrie T. Mouser; the brick building on I of through the blow-off cocks. It was in the study of this subject that the inventor conceived the idea which is herewith presented. It has passed from the ideal to the practical, and is now in successful operation on the Southern Pa-cific system, fully demonstrating its efficiency. Its action is as follows: The water passes through the injectors, enters the forward end, or smoke-arch, thence through the forward flue-sheet and under a copper diaphragm, running back to the fire-box, slightly turning downward into the water space. An indirect current is established drawng the water from the main body in the poiler under the diaphragm, causing a complete circulation throughout the entire By reason of the circulation an even temperature is maintained through all parts of the boiler, which prevents an unequal degree of contraction and expansion, wh s very detrimental to the shell and the numerous stay-bolts. The steaming quali ies of a boiler are also improved, requi ng a reduced consumption of fuel. The necessity for frequent washings of the poiler is also obviated. The invention is attracting a great deal of attention from leading mechanics broughout the country, as it is a new departure from the common usage, and one which bids fair to become quite general. The application of Mr. Jordan's inven omotive boilers will readily be understood by mechanics, and especially by engineers—both of locomotives and tationary boilers. While it is readily applicable to the latter, it can, by slight mod-fication, be applied to all boilers. As before stated, the invention is in successful pperation by the Southern Pacific Company, and the inventor is almost daily in receipt of letters from the Master Me chanics of other railroads and engineers making inquiry about it. Mr. Jordan is an old resident of this city. and a veteran of the war, having at one time served on the staff of General Hawley of Connecticut. He is an experienced engineer, and one of those intelligent mechanics whose minds are ever active in the study of mechanical appliances and improvements.

TWO MORE SUCCESSFUL INVENTORS. Among the Record Union's dispatches rom Washington last night it was announced that a patent had just been issued to H. O. Beatty of this city, for a steam motor for pumps. Also, to Hans Nisson for a fender for feed-troughs.

ARTHUR D. JANUARY. Orgent Appeals to the Governor to Grant

o Governor Waterman for the pardon of Arthur D. January are probably more numerously signed than any that have been sent to an Executive, and beside these, a large number of personal letters have been addressed to the Governor, earnestly urging him to exercise the pardoning power in behalf of January. It will be rememoered that the latter was convicted of embezzling some $53,000 of the State's money while Deputy Treasurer, and was sent to prison for ten years. The ground a pardon is asked is the poor health of the risoner. When first sent to San Quentin he was set to work in the jute mill, but was in that department but a very short time when the work was found to be too understood him to say that all persons hard for him, and he was given a position

General Johnson also writes to the Governor a strong letter, in which he states that he believes the pardoning power should be used in January's case.

The latest letter received was from Rev. Dr. Snowden, a Presbyterian minister at San Jose, who, among other things, says:
"You know, dear sir, that when the majesty of the law has been vindicated, the Angel of Mercy can come in and set the poor repeatant and prisoner free. I would delight to see the unfortunate young man, Arthur D. January, pardoned. ### WORKERS IN COUNCIL

The Federated Trades Indorse the Iron

Molders' Strike. Sacramento Council of Federated Trades met last night. Communications were read from Senator Stanford and Congressman McKenna, stating that the petition in favor of the appointment of Durham Sprague as Building Inspector of the new postoffice had been received, and would have their careful consideration, Mr. Mc-Kenna writing that the appointment would not be made until work was commenced.

The strike of the Iron Molders' Union in San Francisco was indorsed. The manager of the Free Employment Bureau reported that situations had been procured for three men and fourteen women since the last meeting of the Feder ation, making the number furnished employment to date, 105. P. G. Zimmerman presented credentials as a delegate from the Cigarmakers' Union, A resolution was adopted to petition the Pacific coast representatives in Congress to present a bill providing that in all Government-contract work eight hours shall con stitute a day's work. Various delegates reported that the boycott against St. Louis beer was working finely, and that several saloonkeepers had withdrawn patronage from these beers. Mr. Rott resigned as a delegate from the Painters' Union, and stated that efforts were being made to organize a general Contractors' Union of all the building Mr. Rott was given a vote of thanks for his past services to the Federation, and the statement was made that such a Union as outlined by him would receive the cordial indorsement of the Federation, the use of the hall being tendered for the preliminary meetings.

Reports from the various trades showed many in good condition, and trade generally is picking up.

The question of white-labor cigars was discussed at considerable length, and the members expressed a determination to do all in their power to advance the interests of Union cigarmakers. It was stated that there were about 250 Chinese cigarmakers in this city.

THOSE GRANGE CASES.

The Supreme Court Decides in Favor of the Railroad Companies.

Washington, March 25th.—The United States Supreme Court yesterday reversed the decision of the Minnesota Supreme Court against certain railroad companies, known as the "Granger cases. The issue was certain rates prescribed by the State Railroad Commissioners, which the railroad companies asserted were so low as practically to amount to depriving the company of its property without due process of law.

Justice Blatchford, in delivering the opinion of the Court, says that it must accept the construction put upon the State statute by the Minnesota Supreme Caurt. That Court declared that it is the expressed intention of the Legislature that rates fixed by the Railroad Commission are not simply advisory, but final and conclusive; that the law neither contemplates nor allows any issue to be made or inquiry had as to their equity or reasonableness in fact. In other words, authough a railroad company is forbidden to establish rates not equal and reasonable, there is no power in the Courts to stay the Commission.

The question of reasonableness of rates for the same up.

Washington, March 25th.—The Cherokee Commission, which has been revived by the appointment of ex-Senator Angus Cameron this cappointment of ex-Senator Angus Cameron this city. They had a conference with Secretary Noble and Indian Commissioner Morgan and Assistant Commissioner Morgan equal and unreasonable.

The question of reasonableness of rates for vestigation, requiring due process of law for de-termination. If the company is deprived of the power of charging reasonable rates in the ab-sence of an investigation by the judicial ma-chinery, it is deprived of the lawfur use of its property, and thus, in substance and effect, of the property itself, without due process of law and in violation of the Constitution, and while other persons are permitted to receive reason-able profits from invested capital the company is denied the equal protection of the law. Justice Miller concurred with some hesitation in the judgment of the Court. He was of opin-ion that the Legislature or the commission ap-pointed by it had a right to establish rates, but where unjust rates were fixed the parties agwhere unjust rates were fixed the parties aggreeved had a right to appeal to the courts. Railways should have the right to be heard, and as the Supreme Court of Minnesota refused this, the case, in his opinion, should be reversed, on the ground that this is a denial of due process of lew Justice Bradley, for himself and Justices Gray and Lamar, delivered an oral dissent. It seemed to him that the decision of the Court practically overrused decisions in other cases in which it has been held that the adjustment of rates was a legislative and not a judicial prerogative. The courts should never make issue with the legislative department where it was possible to avoid it. It might be asked if the public was at the mercy of Legislatures. He answered yes. There had to be a final tribunal somewhere to decide every case. The question was, which was the proper final tribuna? In his opinion it was the Legislature. He did not mean that there might not arise circumstances practically overruled decisions in other cases in mean that there might not arise circumstance which would give the judiciary power in the matter, but it was not so in this case.

A VETERAN. I was wounded in the leg at the battle of Stone River, Dec. 31st, 1862. My blood was poisoned from the effects of the wound, and the leg swelled to double its natural size, and remained so for many years. The poison extended to my whole system, and I suffered a thousand deaths. Nothing did me any good until I took Swift's Specific, which took the poison out of my system, and enabled me to feel myself a man again. S. S. is the remedy for blood poison.
